

Elysia Tse

Elysia Tse is the Head of Asia Pacific Research & Strategy and a voting member of the Asia Pacific Investment Committee of LaSalle Investment Management. She returned to LaSalle in May 2016 having been a member of our Americas Research & Strategy group during 2002-2005.

Elysia was previously the Head of Investment Governance, Strategy & Research Asia Pacific for Aviva Investors and subsequently the Head of Research and Strategy for J.P. Morgan Asset Management – Real Estate Asia Pacific (post the M&A).

Before returning to Asia, Elysia has over a decade of experience in real estate investment research and strategy in the U.S. She has held positions in real estate research and strategy teams at Citibank and BlackRock based in New York. Elysia started her career in Hong Kong in 1998. She holds a B.S. from Xiamen University and a Master's degree in Real Estate from Cornell University.

In 2011, Elysia was named a Rising Leader by Commercial Property Executive in the U.S. She sits on the Advisory Board of Cornell University Baker Program in Real Estate.